The Penn Air Group Opening More Offices in Pacific Rim

Los Angeles, CA – January 2008 - According to Herman Philhower, Founder and CEO of The Penn Air Group, “Our initial efforts into China have validated our strategy to expand in the Pacific Rim and as a result we have accelerated our timetable for expansion. We will open 7 additional offices in China and Australia by the end of 2008. Everyone is confronted with $100 a barrel oil, with some experts predicting $150-200 possible, coupled with the immense demand for energy in the region, going green is not just an option any more, it’s a strategic necessity”.

Jennifer Yan Wang, Vice President Asia Operations for The Penn Air Group said, “We have effectively demonstrated dramatic energy savings to key decision makers through China and major contract announcements will be forth in the coming months. Since Beijing was awarded the Olympics and China’s enormous appetite for energy, the government has made major commitments to improve air quality and energy efficiency. The Penn Air Group’s energy savings programs for indoor air quality have been very well received”. Overseeing business functions in China Ms Wang has over 20-years business experience in China, holds both a Bachelor degree from the Liaoning Institute of Economic Management, a Construction Engineering Certificate and is a legal representative of the Science & Technology Trading Company Ltd.
